

TELEMUS GROUP

CHRISTOPHER CHEN

ANALYST

Christopher Chen is an Analyst with the Telemus Group. He assists with research projects and defense analyses.

Prior to joining Telemus, Mr. Chen interned with the American Enterprise Institute's Foreign and Defense Policy department where he worked on several projects including a study on rogue and revisionist regimes' long-term competitive strategies against the United States and research on the military effectiveness of several Arab countries. He also interned with the National Defense University's Center for Applied Strategic Learning assisting with research and execution of wargames and exercises.

Mr. Chen holds a master's degree in Security Studies with a concentration in Military Operations from Georgetown University's Security Studies Program and a BA in Arabic Language from Connecticut College.